THE COLUMBIAN.

(COLUMBIA DEMOCRAT, STAR OF THE NORTH AND COLUMBIAN CONSOLIDATED.)

Issued weekly, every Friday morning, at BLOOMSBURG, COLUMBIA COUNTY, PA.

AT TWO DOLLARS per year, 50 cents discount allowed when paid in advance. After the expiration of the year $2.50 will be charged. To subscribers out of the county the terms are $2 per year, strictly in advance.

No paper discontinued, except at the option of the publishers, until all arrearages are paid, but long continued credits after the expiration of the first year will not be given.

All papers sent out of the State or to distant post offices must be paid for in advance, unless a responsible person in Columbia county assumes to pay the subscription due on demand.

POSTAGE is no longer exacted from subscribers in the county.

JOB PRINTING.

The Jobbing Department of the COLUMBIAN is very complete, and our Job Printing will compare favorably with that of the large cities. All work done on demand, neatly and at moderate prices.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.
GREAT TRUNK LINE
AND
UNITED STATES MAIL ROUTE.

The attention of the travelling public is respectfully invited to some of the merits of this great highway, in the confident assertion and belief that no other line can offer equal inducements as a route of through travel. In stands confessedly at the head of American railways The track is double the entire length of the line, of steel rails laid on heavy oak ties, which are embedded in a foundation of rock ballast eighteen inches in depth. All bridges are of iron or stone, and built upon the most approved plans. Its passenger cars, while eminently safe and substantial, are at the same time models of comfort and elegance.

Construction and Equipment
THE

THE SAFETY APPLIANCES

in use on this line well illustrate the far-seeing and liberal policy of its management, in accordance with which the utility only of an improvement and not its cost has been the question of consideration. Among many may be noticed

THE BLOCK SYSTEM OF SAFETY SIGNALS,
JANNEY COUPLER, BUFFER and PLATFORM
THE WHARTON PATENT SWITCH, AND THE WESTINGHOUSE AIR-BRAKE,

forming in conjunction with a perfect double track and road-bed a combination of safeguards against accidents which have rendered them practically impossible.

Pullman Palace Cars
are run on all Express Trains
From New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington,
To Chicago, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis and St. Louis, WITHOUT CHANGE,

and to all principal points in the far West and South with but one change of cars. Connections are made in Union Depots, and are assured to all important points.

THE SCENERY
OF THE PENNSYLVANIA ROUTE

is admitted to be unsurpassed in the world for grandeur, beauty and variety. Superior refreshment facilities are provided. Employees are courteous and attentive, and it is an inevitable result that a trip by the Pennsylvania Railroad must form

A PLEASING AND MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE.

Tickets for sale at the lowest rates at the Ticket Offices of the Company in all important cities and towns.

THE POINT OF HONOR.

A STORY OF THE PAST.

Shortly after Waterloo had been fought one of our English regiments (which had taken a distinguished part in that great victory) stationed in a Mediterranean garrison gained an unenviable notoriety there by a sudden mania for duelling that broke out among its officers, and which threatened to become so chronic in its character as seriously to interfere with the discipline of the corps. Quarrels were litterally 'made to order' at mess time for the most trifling affairs, and scarcely a day passed without a hostile meeting taking place, which the Colonel—a weak-minded man—expressed himself powerless to prevent. Indeed he had already been sent to 'Coventry' by his subordinates, which, as our readers doubtless know, is a kind of social ex communication that, when acted upon in an English regiment, generally ends in the retirement from the corps of the individual on whom it falls. It was so in this instance, for the Colonel saw that the vendetta-like conduct of his officers towards him was gradually divesting him of all authority in the eyes of his men; and as he had none but his social inferiors to whom he could turn for counsel and advice, he was compelled to relinquish his command and return to England. On arrival in this country he lost no time in proceeding to the Horse Guards, where he sought and gained an interview with the Duke of Wellington, to whom he gave a graphic account of the state of affairs which existed in the regiment he had just left.

The Iron Duke listened attentively to the narration, and knitted his brow in anger as the Colonel related the story of the duelling; and when the latter had finished speaking, he exclaimed in an unmistakably stern and uncompromising tone: "It is your fault, sir! You should have brought some of the ringleaders to a court-martial and cashiered them on the spot. You have sadly neglected your duty, and that is a thing which I never pardon."

The Colonel left the Horse Guards in a very crestfallen state, and he was hardly surprised when he saw in the next Gazette the announcement that "His Majesty had no further need of his services."

In the meantime the Duke had obtained an audience of the Prince Regent, to whom he explained the condition of affairs in connection with the regiment in question. The result was that Colonel A——, a well known martinet, then on half pay was sent for and the circumstances explained to him; the Prince offering him the command of the regiment on condition that he would undertake to cure the duelling propensities of its officers. Colonel A——was delighted at the prospect of active service, and he willingly accepted the task assigned to him, it being understood that he was to be granted a royal indemnity for anything serious which might happen to anybody in his endeavors to put a stop to the duelling. He was a man of high reputation, and had previously held other difficult commands, being known throughout the army as a good soldier but a stern disciplinarian.

Such was the old soldier's feelings at the special honor conferred on him that on leaving St. James' Palace he actually forgot to return the salute of the sentinels posted at the gates, to the great astonishment of the latter, who knew his punctilious habits.

On his arrival at the garrison he lost no time in making himself acquainted with his brother officers. He had already laid out his plan of action in his own mind, and was fully determined to allow nothing to swerve him a hair's breadth from the path of duty. At the mess table he behaved with studied politeness and amiability of manner, and his subordinates indicated that they were greatly pleased with their new commander. He chatted pleasantly with all, from the senior major down to the youngest ensign, and when the cloth was removed regaled them with the latest gossip and doings of London society. Before they separated for the night, however, he took the opportunity of informing them, in a very quiet manner, that he had heard of the frequent duels which had taken place in the corps, and that it seemed a matter of regret to him that they could not live in peace and amity. "However," he said, "if it be your wish, gentlemen, to fight out your quarrels in this way, I shall interpose no obstacle to your doing so. But this can only be by your pledging your word of honor now to the effect that in the future no duel shall take place without my permission having been first obtained. As I am your Colonel, it is necessary that my authority should be acknowledged in all that relates to the honor of the regiment."

The officers looked at each other and then at the Colonel, and a somewhat embarrassing silence ensued; but it was broken by Colonel A——, who said: "Don't be afraid that I shall refuse your request; on the contrary, I shall only be too pleased to grant my permission if, on examining the facts of the case, I find sufficient reason to think that the applicant's amour prope has been wounded and that a hostile meeting is indispensable."

At these reassuring words the young fire-eaters were satisfied, and at once gave the promise demanded; and Colonel A—— then retired to his chamber, where, overcome with the fatigue of a rough voyage, he soon found himself snugly ensconced in the arms of Morpheus.

On the following morning he was rather rudely awakened from a refreshing slumber by a loud rapping at the chamber door; and on challenging his early visitors, he was informed that it was Captain Lord Vellum and Ensign Warbottle who wished to speak to him on a matter of the gravest importance.

"You might have chosen a more convenient hour for your visit, gentlemen," said the Colonel, who was naturally loath to rise from his bed at 5 o'clock on the first morning after his voyage.

"It is an 'affair of honor,' Colonel," was the significant reply, "and cannot be delayed. We beg you will you admit us instantly."

The Colonel rose and opened the door to the early comers. They were two handsome young men, who had on the previous evening already attracted Colonel A——'s attention by the extreme friendliness which they exhibited for each other. They respectfully saluted their commanding officer as they entered the room, and the latter broke an awkward silence by demanding of them the object of their visit.

Ensign Warbottle again raised his hand in salute as he replied: "We have come to ask your permission to fight, Colonel."

"Indeed!" exclaimed Colonel A——. "I thought you were great friends."

"Yes, Colonel, we have been most intimate friends from our youth upward," said Lord Vellum, "and we respect each other very sincerely; but we have had a dispute, and our wounded honor must be satisfied."

"Then I presume that something very serious must have occurred, gentlemen, to make the only remedy for it a recourse to the pistol?"

"It is indeed a very serious matter, Colonel," replied Ensign Warbottle; "and it is this: After you had left the table last night, we chatted over what you had told us about the doings in London lately; and, in the enthusiasm of the moment, I remarked that I should like to be there, riding at the head of a troop of Life Guards, and escorting the Prince Regent, with my silver helmet glittering in the sun and my drawn sword in my hand. Whereupon Lord Vellum said with a sneer that I was a feather-bed soldier, and that a leather helmet would be quite good enough for such as I. I took no notice of this remark; but I was annoyed and excited and when he further asserted that the officers of the Life Guards wore brass helmets, human nature could stand it no longer, and I gave him the lie. He retaliated by striking me on the face, an insult Colonel A——, which justifies me, I think, in demanding a hostile meeting." The last words were said in a manner which admitted of only one meaning, and the two young officers exchanged glances of mutual hatred and defiance.

"It is indeed grave, gentlemen," sententiously remarked the Colonel; "the helmets worn by the officers of His Majesty's Life Guards are neither silver nor brass but white metal lacquered with silver-gilt; but this information will not, I presume, alter the position of affairs. Do you still wish to fight the question out?"

"Certainly, sir!" exclaimed the two officers.

'Very well,' replied the Colonel, gravely 'Far be it from me to interpose any obstacle to your meeting, gentlemen; but this duel must be a serious one, as benefits so important a question as Life Guards' helmets, and not an affair resulting in a mere scratch, as I am given to understand is generally the case in these quarrels. Remember that you are British officers, and not Spanish bravos and that the honor of a British officer can only be vindicated by the death of his opponent. Go, gentlemen, and fight your duel, and I will meet the survivor on his return.

The two young men saluted the Colonel and retired. A few minutes afterwards they and their seconds were seen hurrying off to the place of meeting—a spot which is known in the garrison to this day as 'Duel Avenue.'

Three hours later Colonel A—— went down into the parade ground to inspect the regiment, and he was surprised to see both Lord Vellum and Ensign Warbottle amongst the officers who approached him to give their morning salute. The latter had his arm in a sling; and to the stern inquiry of Colonel A—— as to whether the duel had yet taken place, he replied with a forced smile lighting up his face, 'Yes, Colonel; his lordship has given me a nasty scratch in the arm.'

'A scratch in the arm!' exclaimed the Colonel contemptuously. And do you call that fighting—do you call that fighting? And for so important a question as to the helmets of his Majesty's life guards! Bah! It is nothing! This matter must be fought over again, under pain of instant dismissal from the service if my order is disobeyed.'

'But'——began Lord Vellum, attempting to express his satisfaction at the reparation his wounded honor had received.

'But me no buts, gentlemen!' exclaimed the Colonel angrily. 'I have the Princes instructions on this point, and it is for you to vindicate your own honor in a proper manner, or retire disgraced from His Majesty's service.'

This alternative was not to be thought of and it need scarcely be said that the young fire eaters chose rather to fight again than be cashiered. The duel was fought again, this time Lord Vellum was shot through the body—a wound which had laid him on a sick bed for two months.

During this long period many quarrels had taken place at the mess table, some of which had been settled by the Colonel acting as 'arbitrator;' and others stood over for his permission to fight—a permission which he refused to grant until the result of Lord Vellum's illness should become known. In the meantime Colonel A—— had communicated with the Duke of Wellington, from whom he received explicit instructions to carry the matter out to the bitter end, as the only means of putting a stop to a matter which was fast becoming a world-wide scandal.

Lord Vellum was carefully attended to during his illness by his "friend and enemy" Ensign Warbottle, to whose efforts he not only owed his life, but was enabled at the end of two months to take a short walk every morning. His recovery then proceeded rapidly, and he soon became enabled to walk without any support whatever.

The two friends were walking together one morning, when they suddenly found themselves face to face with Col. A——.

"Ah, gentlemen, good morning!" exclaimed the latter. "I am delighted to see his lordship out again, especially as it will now enable you to finish your affaire d'honneur in a more satisfactory manner."

The young officers scarcely believing their own ears, were for a time struck dumb with astonishment, and they gazed at each other and at the Colonel with looks of bewilderment and despair.

"You see, gentlemen," said the Colonel, gravely, that this question of the Life Guards helmets is of such importance that I deemed it advisable, since his lordship's illness, to write to the Duke of Wellington on the subject; and I have hear his Grace's orders that the duel should be renewed again and again until the life of one of the combatants has been forfeited." As he spoke, Col. A——, drew from the breast pocket of his coat a large letter, bearing on its envelope the words "On his Majesty's service," in large black letters, and in one corner the notice in red ink, "Very urgent."

"But," said the young ensign, "his lordship has not recovered yet, besides—"

"When one can walk," intecupted the Colonel, "one can also fire off a pistol; and it is not conducive to the interests and dignity of the service that so important a question as the equipment of His Majesty's bodyguard should any longer be left undecided."

The two young officers, who had cemented their friendship anew during the period of illness, here took each others hands and gazed long and silently into each other's face. Colonel A—— turned away to hide his emotion; for being really possessed of a kindly disposition he began to regret the stern and unbending part he had been called upon to perform. Brushing the signs of his weakness from his eyes, he turned once more towards the young officer and said: "Gentlemen, I have orders from England to supersede you in the regiment to which we all have the honor to belong; and I am only [illegible]ve the execution of these orders on condition that the duel is renewed, as already stated. Your honor is absolutely in your own hands and you must choose your own course. I leave you to decide, gentlemen, what that course will be, and bid you, for the present, adieu." So saying the Colonel left the two friends to decide upon their own fate. They ultimately decided to consult with their brother officers on the subject, and to be guided by the general opinion. The opinion turned out to be in favor of another fight; and they once more proceeded to the place of meeting, each mentally resolving not to injure the other, but each exchanging portraits and letters for their friends. The fatal weapons were discharged and Ensign Warbottle fell to the earth with a shot through the heart.

The grief of Lord Vellum knew no bounds, for he had been led to believe that the balls had been withdrawn from the pistols. He threw himself on the inanimate body of his friend, and could with great difficulty be removed therefrom. At length he was conducted to the house of a married officer, and from there he indited a letter to Colonel A——, tendering his resignation, and reproaching the latter with the death of his friend.

The same afternoon, Colonel A—— assembled the other officers, and addressing himself especially to those whose applications to fight were in suspension, declared himself ready to grant one more permission on the same conditions as the other, namely, that "for honor's sake," the combatants should fight to the death. In the pause which ensued, one officer after another saluted the Colonel respectfully, then retired as silently as they came, leaving him alone in the mess room and master of the situation.

It was a rude lesson which these officers had received, but it fully accomplished its purpose, and from that day to this duelling has been almost unknown in the British army.

THE RESULTS.

The election is over, and the people will settle down to their accustomed walks until another season of political turmoil shall come around. The state has gone republican by a few thousand, the people of a so called independent state being unable to assert their liberty by throwing off the Cameron yoke. Our county ticket is elected, and it is probable that Fetterman, the republican candidate for commissioner, is defeated by Herring on the greenback ticket. The majority for the state ticket is cut down to about 1800 by the greenback vote, and these people can now congratulate themselves that they have succeeded in defeating Dill, and electing the man they have been working for, Hoyt.

For Congress, it is probable that Klotz is elected, but the returns from the district up to Thursday morning are not full enough to give definite results. Brockway has about 500 majority in Columbia county, and is reported has nearly a thousand in Lackawana county. In Montour county Klotz had about 1000 votes, and Brockway 400. Orvis received about 1200 in this county as will be seen by the table. This was more than the other parties expected he would get, but less than his estimate. The election passed off quietly in all parts of the county. We will give full returns from the Congressional and Senatorial districts next week.

During the election canvass, just closed Mr. Buckalew has attended and addressed Democratic meetings as follows.

In Columbia County: Bloomsburg (Opera House) Saturday evening, Sept. 28; Light Street, Saturday evening October 5; Espy, Monday evening, October 21; Benton Tuesday afternoon, October 22; Berwick, Saturday afternoon, October 26; Catawissa, Friday evening, November 1; Stonytown, Monday evening, November 4.

In Luzerne County: Plymouth, Friday evening, October 11; Shickshinny, Saturday afternoon, October 12.

In Lackawana County: Carbondale, Tuesday evening, October 15; Lackawana, (Minooka,) Wednesday evening, October, 15; Dunmore, Thursday evening, October 17; Olyphant, Friday evening, October 18.

In Sullivan County: Colley, Monday evening, October, 28; Dushore, Tuesday afternoon, October, 29.

CONGRESSIONAL.

PIKE.

Milford, Pa., Nov. 6.—C. B. Brockway: Klotz majority over you thirty six; over Albright ninety-one.

CARBON.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., Nov. 6—C. B. Brockway: Albright twenty-three hundred and nineteen; Klotz, twenty hundred and fifty-one; Orvis nine hundred and twenty-five; Brockway one hundred and fifteen. Monroe gives Klotz sixteen hundred more than Albright with three townships to hear from.

MONTOUR.

Danville, Pa., Nov. 6—C. B. Brockway: Klotz nine hundred and forty; Albright seven hundred and eighty-four; Brockway four hundred and thirty-three; Orvis four hundred and seventy-seven.

Columbia county democrats were induced to vote against their own nominee for Congress by falsehoods circulated at the last moment by Klotz and his employees. Notwithstanding this, Captain Brockway's majority over Klotz in this county is about eight hundred.

Klotz received 35 votes in Bloomsburg. With all the known and unknown agencies that were at work against Brockway, this vote is not at all complimentary to those who were opposing him

Wilson M. Gearhart was elected Prothonotary in Montour county, by the republicans and greenbackers. W. J. Baldy, republican was defeated for assembly.

W. H. Cummin, the peoples candidate for President Judge in Lycoming defeated J. J. Metzgar, the regular nominee. Both are democrats.

One of the many contemptible tricks resorted to by Klotz, was the posting of bills in parts of Luzerne county announcing that Brockway had withdrawn in his favor.

John W. Ryon, democrat, is elected in the 13th Congressional district by 250 majority.

With the Recorder's Bill hanging about the necks of the citizens of Philadelphia like a mill-stone, that city gives the men who put it upon them a majority of 15,000. The Goddess of Liberty has no business in that community.

Hon. Geo. D. Jackson is elected State Senator for this district, but we are unable to give the full vote. His majority in this county can be obtained from the table above.

The Molly Maguires seem to have done their whole duty. Jack Kehoe's neck may now be regarded as entirely safe.

Temperance Ticket.

The following vote for the Temperance candidates was cast in this county.

There is one thing pretty sure, whatever startling telegrams may be flashed across the water concerning the new phase of the eastern question, it is too late in the year now for the English army to advance into Afghanistan. The subject may be discussed most exhaustively the rest of the winter, but it is hardly probable that any fresh matter will be offered.

A few days ago a Mrs. Butterfield, of Petrolia, noticed that her child seemed sick and was in the act of gagging or chokeing. Supposing that the girl might have a chestnut in her mouth the mother ran to her, and forcing her thumb and finger down her mouth took hold of what she supposed was the nut and pulled it out, when she discovered the lump to be a small snake coiled up, which proved to be seven inches long. The reptile was alive, but its head was nearly severed in pulling it out, it lived but a few moments. The query is, "how did the snake get into the child's stomach?"

LET THE FLAG WAVE ANYHOW.

Our Rooster crows over the Democratic victories in seventeen states out of the thirty in which elections were held on Tuesday.

The Democracy have the key to the national situation in 1880. Both houses of Congress will be Democratic by decided majorities.

The republican majority in Pennsylvania not more than 10,000, and it is not yet certain but that a portion of the Democratic state ticket has been elected.

Dill's majority in Columbia county is about 1900.

THE ELECTIONS.

PENNSYLVANIA PROBABLY REPUBLICAN.

Special dispatches to the COLUMBIAN.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5th, 12 midnight.—The republicans have a majority in both branches of the Legislature and have gained one member of Congress defeating Stenger in the eighteenth district. Special returns to the Record from every county in the state make Hoyt's majority close to twenty thousand. The Democrats retain their majority in the Lower House Congress.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6th, 2 a. m.—The Republicans have carried the state for their full ticket by a majority ranging from ten to twenty thousand. The Republican majority in this city for Hoyt is fifteen thousand.

Other States.

NEVADA.

San Francisco, November 5.—The chairman of the democratic state committee claims the election of the legislative ticket, much scratching being done.

Dispatches from Virginia City state that the chairman of the democratic state committee claims that the democratic legislative ticket is ahead in that state. There has been much scratching.

DELAWARE.

Kent county, Duck Creek Hundred, gives 222 democratic majority.

Wilmington—The returns are not all in yet. In Wilmington city the estimated democratic majority for governor is 1,000.

Seven out of the nine hundreds in Kent county heard from, electing Marbin, democrat, to congress and the whole democratic ticket by about 1,992 majority. In the other two hundreds the democratic majority not yet known.

Wilmington, November 5.—John W. Hall, democrat, has been elected governor, and Edward L. Martin, democrat, is elected to congress. The republicans ran no candidate for either of the above offices, the only opposition being greenbackers. The republicans ran a county ticket in New Castle county, but without success. It was expected that the greenbackers would develop some strength in Sussex county, but returns received so far indicate that they offered no material opposition. In Kent county the democratic ticket was unopposed.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond, Nov. 5.—The election is quiet and the vote is small in this city, only about 3,000 votes were polled out of a registered vote of over 13,000. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston carries the city by over 2,000 majority. Returns from a number of precincts in the Third district indicate Johnston's election beyond a doubt.

Hunton for congress is re-elected.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence, November 5—Ballou, republican, is re-elected to congress in the second district by 700 majority. Aldrich, republican elected in the First district by 3,800 majority.

GEORGIA.

Columbus, Nov. 5.—Returns indicate Henry Person, independent democrat, elected over Harris, present member, by 1,000 majority in the Fourth district.

CONNECTICUT.

Bridgeport, November 5.—P. T. Barnum, is elected to the legislature from Bridgeport on the republican ticket.

Hartford. Eighty-seven towns give Hubbard, democrat, 22,987, Andrews, republican, 23,119; Atwater, 3,420; prohibition, 498. In 1876 the same towns gave Hubbard 28,263, Robinson 26,985 Gen. Hawley, republican, is elected to congress by a plurality of 1,500, a gain of 1,557 from the vote of 1876. Wait, republican, is elected in the Third district. There is no election of governor by the people.

Eighty-seven towns give Hubbard, democrat, 22,987; Andrews, republican, 23,119 Hawley, republican, is elected to congress from the Hartford district by 1,500 plurality. Waite, republican, for congress, elected in the third district. Legislature probably republican.

NEW JERSEY.

Absecon, November 5—Absecon town gives Smith, democrat, for congress, 28 majority; for assembly, Green, democrat, 46 majority.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, November 5.—Sixty precincts in Boston city gives a strong democratic vote as follows: Butler, 18,866; Talbot, 15,796; Abbott, 1,254; Minor 123. Butler probably carries the city by a plurality, but his defeat in the state is looked upon as certain.

Outside of Boston 130 towns give Talbot over 13,000 majority over Butler.

3 P. M.—Talbot's majority over Butler will be about 35,000.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

South Carolina returns from Charleston up to 10 p. m. indicate the election of a solid democratic delegation to congress.

KENTUCKY.

Lexington, Nov. 5, 11 p. m.—Blackburn democrat, is returned to Congress by 8,000 majority.

ALABAMA.

Columbus, Ga., Nov. 5.—In the Third Alabama district W J. Stamford, democrat, is elected.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit, Nov. 5.—Returns come in slowly. Fifty-seven towns already heard from give Crosswell, republican for governor, 7476 Barnes, democrat, 3,923; Smith, national, 4,931.

TENNESSEE.

Chattanooga, Nov. 5.—The returns indicate the election of Pittsbone, republican, in the First and Dibbell, democrat in the Third district of Tennessee.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The republicans elect congressmen in the First, Second and Third district.

[For the COLUMBIAN.]

A SUGGESTED IMPROVEMENT IN FARMING.

The usual rotation of crops in Columbia County is either corn, oats, wheat and clover; or, omitting oats, wheat after a summer follow then clover. There are three objections to fallowing. First, the loss of the use of the ground for a season. Second, loss of the labor required to keep the land clean. And third, loss of fertility in the soil where the land is good. Poor land gains fertility by fallowing while good land loses. To save the fertility of good land it is necessary always to have something growing upon it. Oats are also objectionable, because they require mainly the same nutriment that wheat does and therefore injure the succeeding wheat crop, and sometimes cause a total failure. The essential ingredients of fertility in the soil and of all manures are FOUR—Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid, Potash and Lime. These are the regulators of production, and the only ones with which agricultural industry need occupy itself. Lime exerts no especial preponderating action upon any crop, but is necessary for all. Phosphoric acid is especially beneficial to corn. Potash has an especial influence upon clover and potatoes. But Nitrogen is the predominant ingredient for both wheat and oats. Now inasmuch as oats tend to exhaust the soil of its nitrogen the same as wheat does, it follows that a second crop of wheat on wheat stubble will stand just as good a chance as a first crop of wheat on oats stubble. Observation proves that farmers who practice fallowing and dispense with oats do better in the long run than those who raise wheat on oats stubble. The former generally have good crops of wheat, and seldom and some of them never have a failure, which cannot be said of those who practice raising wheat on oats stubble. If instead of losing a year by fallowing farmers could get a good crop of wheat, to be succeeded the next year by another equally good, they would soon more than retrieve their lost prosperity. To fully appreciate the importance of this extra wheat crop every year, it is only necessary to remember how much distress and poverty have been brought upon farmers and the country by the ravages of the Hessian fly.

Can this extra crop of wheat be obtained without detriment to the soil?—I answer it can.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman of October 24, 1878 writes as follows: WHEAT IN CULTIVATED ROWS.—I have no "recollection of having seen any account in "the Country Gentleman of a trial in this "country of the so-called Lois-Weedon "method of growing wheat year after year, "in the same field, on alternate strips five "feet wide, which are deeply stirred by scar-"ifiers and kept perfectly clean while the "yearly crop is growing on the intermediate "strips; these being also hoed and kept "quite clear of all plants but the wheat, "the average yield at Lois-Weedon for "eighteen years, without any manure being "used was thirty-five bushels to the acre—"from a little over a peck of seed sown, or "rather planted upon one half of the ground "annually.

"The possibility of obtaining good crops "of the same sort of grain in constant annu-"al succession is proved by the old experi-"ments of Tull, and by the later ones of "Lawes and others; and the theory that the "minute insect enemies of the plant are "starved out by clean cultivation, which "leaves them no resource at the season when "the cultivated plant does not occupy the "ground, seems to gather support from these "cases. Fallowing, to be effective must be "at the critical season (between harvest and "seed time,) perfectly clean, in order to the "starving out of unseen insect depredators."

We have accounts of large yields of wheat from Lancaster county, where it had been cultivated like corn. While the wheat plant is quite small it requires but little moisture from the ground. But the most common and generally the greatest draw back to the wheat crop is dry weather after the straw gets large and thick on the ground, and while the wheat is filling. The stalks and leaves then expose a large amount of evaporating surface to the sunshine and winds, thereby drawing much moisture from the earth to supply their demand. Now what would be the effect of sowing wheat in alternate narrow strips, the intermediate strips of equal breadth being kept clear and their surface loose, especially in dry weather, by clean cultivation? Why, the clear strips of ground would absorb much moisture from the atmosphere and retain it, and thus act as self-regulating fountains to irrigate the wheat plants growing on the alternate strips of ground at either side.

The great objection to sowing wheat in the usual way upon corn stubble, is the expense of getting the corn out of the way early enough to prepare the ground for wheat. But when the wheat is to be sown on alternate strips, this objection can be easily obviated by cutting the corn early and setting it up in stooks on some of the intermediate strips which are not to be plowed for the present sowing. For the purpose of plowing the ground level and smooth in alternate narrow strips leaving the intermediate narrow strips unplowed, the corn should be set up in straight rows of stooks about twenty feet apart from centre to centre and then with a plow turning a twelve inch furrow, throw five furrows towards each row of stooks and leaving five feet in the centre between the rows of stooks unplowed; thus leaving the plowed portion of the ground without dead or double furrows.

When the succeeding or second crop of wheat is to be followed by clover, the ground should be all plowed and sown in the usual way. Then the field will be covered with wheat upon alternate strips of wheat stubble and intermediate strips of land of equal breadth having the benefit of a clean summer fallow.

PARIS LETTER.

PARIS, October 18, 1878.

I had a glance at the reverse side of Parisian life the other day on the Boulevard—a glance sudden, momentary, but as completely lucid and comprehensive as that afforded of a landscape by a flash of summer lightning on a moonless night. It was two o'clock in the afternoon, and raining heavily. I was standing on the curb, just in front of the Cafe Riche, in that state of dolorous dubiety to which people are subject who continually carry an umbrella, and who never save under the strongest compulsion, open it. An umbrella may be a companion, a friend, a staff, a protector, a weapon, an adviser, an indicator, and when it rains the best use you can put your paraplue to is to hail the nearest cab or omnibus with it. But there were no cabs to be had that afternoon; the Paris omnibuses do not stay in their wild career to take up stray passengers; and I had begun to think that there was no alternative between putting up my "Robinson" as the French, in the affectionate memory of Robinson Crusoe, term an umbrella—when there stopped right in front of me the smartest of smart broughams, Pair of coal-black steppers, exquisitively matched; a viscount's coronet on the panels; similiar heraldic device in platinated bronze on the harness, Lamps perfect. Coachman clean-shaven, curly-brimmed hat, white cravat, black frock, bottes molles with tops for which oxalic acid could do nothing more. Footman identical with coachman; only—mark the art of this—a shade younger and slimmer. In brief a perfect equipage. Two persons inside. M. le Viconte; lawn colored ulster, varnished shoes with dove colored gaiters, lemon kid gloves, spiky moustaches, a rose in his button-hole, and a cigarette. Second person, a lady, but whether she was Madame la Vicontesse or Mademoiselle Amenaide Sanspapa of the Bouffes Parvaiens, I am not prepared to say; suffice it to remark that she was beauteous, that her hair was of the hue of newly-stacked barley that she was radiantly clad, that she was brave in diamonds, and that from the superb chariot there exhaled an odor of jocky club, frangipane opoponax—I am sure I don't know which, not being learned in any perfumes, save that of the Vueltra de Abajo, an oder very popular in the Island of Cuba, where the names of the principal perfumers are Cabana, Partagas, and Cavargas. Still the occupant of the smart brougham were evidently two very important personages indeed. Stay, there was a third; a snow white little Maltese dog, with two sparkling black eyes and a crimson satin bow at his chin. He battled with his paws, and barked as though the brougham and the coal-black steppers and the servants and the lady in diamonds—tout le tremblement enfin—belonged to him. Who knows? Perhaps they do.

Hastily alighting from his carriage, to keep an appointment with a friend at the Cafe' Riche, M. le Viconte let fall from a number of documents which he held in one lemon-kid-gloved hand something like a letter in an envelope. It fell face downwards, in the smooth black mud of the gutter. Instantaneously—I never saw anything quicker—a lean young man, with a white pock marked face, a faded ragged blouse, reaching scarcely below his waist, deplorable pantaloons, shoes like minature coal barges past service and rotting in a ship breakers wharf, and a cap that looked like one of the late Daniel Lambert's grey woollen stockings with the top cut off, darted forward, went on his hands and knees, groveled in the gutter, grappled with the paper, which was fast floating towards a sewer grating picked up the document, rose and with a fawning mien, and a look in which cupidity and hope shone like a flame, wiped the paper with his ragged elbow, and presented it to the gentleman. "Ce n' est qu' une enveloppe' mon ami," quoth M. le Visconte airily and without taking any more notice of the poor wretch, he tripped blithely into the Cafe' Riche. It was only an envelope, absolutely without value now that it was soiled that had fallen in the mud. I have heard a good deal of bad language in many dialects in my time, but I do hope that I shall never again hear curses so fearful as those which were uttered by the lean young man with the white pock-marked face. He had expected reward. The envelope might have been full of thousand-franc notes, and here he was left with his treasure trove, hungry and with muddy hands. He shook his fist at the lady in the brougham—shook it so savagely that she pulled up the window in a hurry to the great discomposure of the Maltese dog—and then the lean young man changing his tone, began to murmur. Malheur, malheur! pas meme une piece de cinquante centimes." And then, it is wretched and shocking to relate, he began to whimper and at last to blubber as though he had been a child of four years old. A policeman came up and made him move on with the usual admonition of "Plus vite que ca." Quicker than that—to hasten his gait; and then I put up my umbrella, and going on my way, saw him no more. Very possibly he was a loafer, an idle scamp, an incumbrance and a pest to society; still to me he represented very suggestively indeed one squalid and lamentable scraps of the other side.

The Yellow Fever.

CHATTANOOGA, November 4.—The Alabama and Great Southern railroad line, from Chattanooga to Vicksburg, is again open the same as prior to the yellow fever epidemic and consequent blockade.

SELMA, Ala., November 4.—A thanksgiving service was held at the Broad street Presbyterian church last night, at which a contribution of $200 was made for the families of Presbyterian ministers who have died of yellow fever.

MEMPHIS, November 4.—The weather is sultry and rain is threatened. From 6 o'clock last night until noon to-day undertakers report six orders for interment of persons who died of fever, both within and outside the city limits.

One case was reported last night, Geo. Skip with, who had been sojourning at Tuscumbia, Alabama, but had returned to the city ten days ago.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., November 4.—Montgomery's contributions to the yellow fever sufferers is $9.8000. The relief association closed on Saturday by sending $100 to the wife and children of Lieutenant Benner.

CHATTANOOGA, November 4.—No new cases or deaths in the last twenty-four hours.

MEMPHIS, November 4.—The board of health officially reported 6 deaths from yellow fever during the past twenty-four hours ending at 6 o'clock to-night. Undertakers report three additional interments beyond the corporation line. One new case is reported, George Buttock, who, for the past four weeks has been exposed to the fever. Dr. Jerome Cochran and Col. T. S Harde, members of the national fever committee, have arrived and commenced their labors.

The Lutheran congregation will hold a Festival in their church on Saturday evening. Refreshments of all kinds will be served.

We are sorry to learn that Johnny G. Hartman aged 14 or 15 years son of A. B. Hartman of Buckhorn, slipped and fell at school and broke his leg below the knee on Tuesday forenoon.

Do you love your children? Then do not allow them to suffer with coughs and colds. Get a bottle of Dr. Haas' Expectorant, and thus have the means at hand to avert a fatal termination.

BUCKHORN, Nov. 4th, 1878.

Messrs. Editors Columbian:

Saturday evening November 2d was the occasion of mirth and glee at the residence of Mr. Sylvester Pursel. T'was "Clark" the only son who caused the trouble. He being tired of hunting and fishing alone took unto himself a wife. The amiable and esteemed Miss Allie Dieterick, being the honored victim. Invitations having been issued, the guests began to arrive about 4 o'clock, among whom were noticed the Buckhorn band who seem to be perfectly adapted to such occasions, being a vocal, string and brass combined. Supper was soon called when fifty or more partook of such a repast as is seldom gotten up even in our cities; About 9 o'clock the quests began to leave, but leaving their many well wishes for Clark and wife, and as many thanks to Mrs. and Mr. Pursel for the kindnesses received at their hands.

Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup is recommended by all druggists as being a purely vegetable and reliable preparation for Babies. Price 25 cents.

WEATHER REVIEW FOR OCTOBER.

The following is the meteorological summary at Catawissa for the month of October, 1878, compiled from observations by W. G. Yetter.

Barometric Pressure—Highest reading on the 26th, 30.37 inches; lowest reading on the 23rd, 28.97 inches; monthly mean, 30.02 inches; monthly range, 1.40 inches.

Temperature of the Air—Highest reading on the 16th, 81½ degrees; lowest reading on the 29th, 27 degrees; monthly mean or average for the month, 55 degrees; monthly range, 54½ degrees; greatest daily range on the 21st, 37½ degrees; least daily range on the 18th, 9 degrees.

Moisture—Mean relative humidity, 69 per cent; number of days on which rain fell, 14; amount of rain fall, 4.14 inches.

Wind—The prevailing wind was from the south-west, and the highest hourly velocity during the month was 53 miles from the south-east on the 23rd, which exerted a pressure of 14 pounds to the square foot of exposed surfaces.

Miscellaneous Phenomena—Frost occurred on the 7th, 13th, 20th, 21st, 22d, 24th, 25th, 26th, 28th and 29th; ice formed in exposed places on the 7th, 13th, 21st, 22d, 26th, 28th and 29th light snow fell on the 31st, being the first of the season in this vicinity.

Certainly there is no other American manufacture that can, with equal justice with Fairbanks' Scales, claim the honorable distinction of being a universal standard.—Commercial Adv

On the eve of an election it is a disreputable but customary practice to circulate falsehoods too late to be denied, that are expected to benefit favorite candidates. It is useless as a general thing to attempt to refute these yarns, but now that the election is over we refer to a falsehood used by a greenbacker to gain votes for his candidate for State Senator. On Monday evening a few hours before the polls opened we were informed that a package of tickets containing the names of all the democratic candidates except that of Geo. D. Jackson for Senator, in whose stead James P. Herdic was inserted, had been delivered in Madison township to a member of the Democratic Standing Committee, with the assertion that the package was sent to him by one of the editors of the COLUMBIAN. This was utterly false. We printed such tickets, as a matter of business with the distinct understanding that we would have nothing to do with their circulation. The tickets were delivered by a man sent for them by Mr. Herdic, and we had nothing whatever to do with sending them out, but on the contrary, refused to give this man who was a stranger in the county, any information as to whom he should deliver them. We printed the tickets for the same reason that we printed some for Mr. Klotz, for Mr. Ent, for the Greenback party, because they were ordered and paid for, and our refusal to print could by no means have prevented their circulation, as they would have got them elsewhere. Any assertions, however, that we did anything for any body but the straight Democratic nominees are false. We were for Dill and the whole ticket, first, last and all the time, but we could not for that reason close up our job office and refuse to do printing for any body else.

THE NEWSPAPER BUSINESS.—Here is how a brother journalist puts it: "We suppose that many people think that newspaper men are persistent duns; let a farmer place himself in a similar business position and see if he would not do the same. Suppose he raised two thousand bushels of wheat, and his neighbor should come and buy a bushel, and the price was a small matter of only two dollars or less, and the neighbor says, "I will hand you the amount in a few days." As the farmer did not want to be small about the matter, he says all right, and the man leaves with the wheat. Another comes in the same way until the whole of the one thousand bushels of wheat are trusted out to one thousand different persons, and not one of the thousand purchasers concerns himself about it, for it is a small amount that he owes the farmer, and of course that would not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away all his large crop of wheat, and that its value is due him in a thousand little driblets, and that he is seriously embarrassed in his business because his debtors treat it as a little matter. But if all would pay him promptly it would be a very large amount to the farmer, and enable him to carry on his business without difficulty. The above comparison is too true of the difficulties that the newspaper man has to contend with."

A bear was killed in Mt. Pleasant township last Friday by the Crawford brothers. A number of our citizens indulged in a slice of bear meat.

We were unable to go to press until late Thursday night owing to a large amount of Sheriff's advertising coming in on Thursday morning that requires insertion this week; and also that we might give the full vote of the county. This delay prevented our making the Thursday's mails.

Last Monday morning as William Ringrose and Thomas Gorey, were at work on the house of John S. Sterner, corner of Third and West streets, the scaffolding gave way and they were precipitated to the ground, falling about twenty five feet. Gorey had his arm broken, head and face badly bruised, and several wounds on the body, and Ringrose was injured internally and badly cut. We are informed that the accident occurred through the neglect of some one to secure the scoffold properly.

THE WALKING MAN.

Prof. H. Faux, the great walker, who appeared in our midst a few days ago gave an exhibition of his powers on Washington street on Monday last. Those who timed him claim that he walked half a mile in 2:30. He was dressed in a gauze shirt, knee britches, red stockings and white shoes. A quarter of a mile was measured off on Washington street and when starting, he bounded off like a flash. A large number of persons had gathered at the store doors, windows and on the side-walks to witness the feat and at times the street was in poor condition for the performance, owing to its crowded state. The Lancaster, Pa., Intelligencer gives the Professor a handsome notice, in which he says:

"Mr. Faux has without doubt a peculiar stride, yet it is said by competent judges who have watched him closely, and so far have been unable to detect any false movement, to be a square heel and toe walk.

The fastest time on record is that of an English professional, whose record for a single mile is 6:10. Mr. Faux claims that he can walk a mile in five minutes. If he can do it, he is the fastest walker in the world. He claims to have walked 110 miles in 19 hours, and says he can produce a lady pedestrian who can walk 19 miles in four hours. * * * He weighs 142 pounds and is 23 years old. His residence is Scranton where he first took to walking." Prof. Faux was employed the past week at Hambleton Fair, next week will be employed by the Fair in Kent county and after that by the Maryland State Fair.—Easton Md. Gazette.

November, the first month proclaiming the embers of the dying year, is upon us. It derives its name from Novem, nine. The last o the autumnal signs was Sagitarius, because when the sun passed it the trees were nearley divested of their foliage which the ancients considered as indicative of the season for hunting, and hence they represented the constellation under the figures of an archer with bow and arrows. The Saxons named it Wint Manath (wind month). The closing day of November is St. Andrew's St. Cecelia has also conferred a ghostly honor on his month, as well as upon music. Leigh Hunt says November "with its loss of verdure, its frequent rains, the fall of leaf, and the visible approach of winter, is undoubtedly a gloomy month to the gloomy, but to others it brings but pensiveness—a feeling very far from being destitute of pleasure; and if the healthiest and most imaginative of us may feel their spirits pulled down by reflection connected with earth—its moralities and its mistakes, we shall but strengthen ourselves the more to make strong and sweet music with the changeful but harmonious movements of nature."

But what is there sad in November? The crysanthemums and dahlias are out in their glory; the forest trees are as gay as a rainbow; the air is bright, crisp and invigorating; there are corn huskings in the barns of the farmers; apples are gathered in; fires are kindled, parties and balls are given, business is brisk in town and country. The leaves fall in October, it is true, but there is nothing sad or melancholy in that any more than there is in putting off an old dress to put on a new one. If the leaves fall it must not be forgotten that they enrich the soil and protect the roots of the trees which bore them. If they did not fall there would be no green buds and white blossoms in the spring. October and November are bright, jolly and enjoyable months, the most so of any year. 'There is nothing so bright as a day in June' except a day in October. But the brightness glories and gaieties of November will follow their predecessors into the dread and solemn past, covered by the pall of dark December. Coming after the sad summer wherein a destroying pestilenc benumbed the energies of the people in one of the fairest por tions of our land, and caused the ordinary pleasures and recreations of society to be neglected and the nations to be, bathed in sorrow because of the carnival of death, a sadness marks its advent that all its brilliancy cannot efface. But its bracing atmosphere will stop the tread of the reaper and dry the tear of grief and sorrow and bring security to the house of mourning.—Exchange.

MESSRS. WM. M GILES & Co.—Gentlemen I have been suffering for ten years with sciatic rheumatism, and the different kinds of Liniment I have used during that time may be estimated by gallons. About two weeks ago I obtained a bottle of your liniment Iodide Ammonia of your agents F. & E. Bailey & Co.; it gave me almost instantaneous relief from pain, and since that time I have been steadily improving. It has done me more good than any medicine that I have before used. I have been obliged to carry a cane until within two weeks, since which time I have not found it necessary I also wish to state that this testimonial is not solicited, but I give it in the hope that other may be benefitted as I have been.

The society elite of the Canadian capitol is thrilled, entranced, ecstasied, over the announcement of the long string of dignitaries that the marquis of Lorne brings with him to keep from becoming entirely barbarian during his residence in the American wilderness.

The report that the Arabs about Bagdad have revolted brings up the fear that the tomb of Sinbad the sailor has been desecrated. If this prove to be the case the effect upon sympathetic Berlin and the English money market will be "depressing" beyond calculation.

THE BRITISH QUARTERLY REVIEW for October has just been published by the LEONARD SCOTT PUBLISHING CO., 41 Barclay St., New York. We briefly describe the contents.

1. "The Universities and the Renaissance." Describes the condition of the European Universities in the middle of fifteenth century, and the changes in which the revolution in learning and religion produced in them, especially in elevating the studies, and awakening and developing the spirit of free inquiry.
2. "Lessing as Philosopher and Theologian." A short biographical sketch, together with an argument that any attempt to classify Lessing as a Positivist or Humanist, or to represent him as not a Theist, is unwarranted and misleading.
3. "Joubert." Joseph Joubert and his Pensees are probably unknown to many of our readers. The work occupies a high place in French literature, and compares favorably with the well-known Pensees of Pascal.
4. "Butter and Cream." A curious inquiry whether the Greeks and Romans made any use of these articles.
5. "Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Austria.' Describes the various races inhabiting the empire of Austria, and, on the whole, approves of the Austrian occupation of these provinces.
6. "Tent Work in Palestine." This book is one of the results of a survey of Western Palestine recently completed, and tells of the strange Eastern people, their ways and their words, and points out the illustrations of the Bible yielded by the survey.
7. "Mr. Hughes on the Establishment."
8. "The Three Treaties." A very severe attack on Lord Beaconsfield's Eastern policy.
9. Contemporary Literature.

The periodicals reprinted by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co. (41 Barclay Street, N. Y.) are as follows: The London Quarterly, Edinburgh, Westminster, and British Quarterly Reviews, and Blackwood's Magazine. Price $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the postage is prepaid by the Publishers.

THANKFUL FOR THE PROFIT WITHOUT THE PAIN.—A Scotch druggist was aroused by the ringing of his night bell. He arose, went down stairs, and served a customer with a dose of salts. His wife grumbled:

'What profit do you get out of that penny?'

'A ha'penny,' was the reply.

'And for that ha'penny you'll be awake a long time,' rejoined his wife.

'A-weel,' replied the placid druggist, the dose of salts will keep him awake much longer; let us thank heaven that we have the profit and not the pain of the transaction."—Harper's Magazine Drawer.

HUNT'S REMEDY

The Great Kidney Medicine is not a new compound; it has been before the public 30 years and used by all classes. HUNT'S REMEDY has saved from lingering disease and death hundreds who have been given up by Physicians to die. HUNT'S REMEDY cures all Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, and Urinary Organs, Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes, and Incontinence and Retention of Urine. HUNT'S REMEDY encourages sleep, creates an appetite, braces up the system, and renewed health is the result. HUNT'S REMEDY cures Pain in the Side, Back, or Loins, General Debility, Female Diseases, Disturbed Sleep, Loss of Appetite, Bright's Disease of the Kidneys and all Complaints of the Urino-Genital Organs. HUNT'S REMEDY is purely vegetable, and meets a want never before furnished to the public, and the utmost reliance may be placed in it. HUNT'S REMEDY is prepared EXPRESSLY for the above diseases, and has never been known to fail. One trial will convince you. Send for pamphlet to

A SUDDEN DEATH.

There is something terrible in the thought of having our friends stricken down at our side, without a parting word of endearment or consolation—one moment at our side in the flush of vigorous life, cheering our hearts with their loving sympathy; the next at our feet, pale with death, deaf to our cries and heedless of our ars.te Every excessively fat person is in constant danger of such a death. Seven-tenths of the victims of obesity die of heart disease or apoplexy. Allan's Anti Fat, the only remedy for obesity, reduces the weight by regulating the digestion and assimilation of the food. It is perfectly harmless, and its use will insure, in every instance, a reduction of weight from two to five pounds a week.

AN ASTONISHING FACT.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disordered liver. The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of Druggists and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower. Your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for ten cents to try. Three doses will relieve the worst case. Positively sold by all druggists on the Western Continent.

NOTHING SHORT OF UNMISTAKABLE BENEFITS Conferred upon tens of thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation which Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys. It is a compound of the best vegetable alteratives, with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most effectual of all remedies for Scrofulous, mercurial, or blood disorders. Uniformly successful and certain in its remedial effects, it produces rapid and complete cures of Scrofula, Sores, Boils, Humors, Pimples, Eruptions, Skin Diseases and all disorders arising from impurity of the blood. By its invigorating effects it always relieves and often cures Liver Complaints, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, and is a potent renewer of vitality. For purifying the blood it has no equal. It tones up the system, restores and preserves the health, and imparts vigor and energy. For forty years it has been in extensive use, and is to-day the available medicine for the suffering sick, anywhere.

J. & P. COATS,

for their best Six-Cord Spool Cotton, confirming the estimate placed upon their goods at all the World's Expositions from that at London, 1862, to the Centennial Exposition of 1876, where they took a diploma for "SUPERIOR STRENGTH AND EXCELLENT QUALITY."

The Second Prize of a Silver Medal was taken by the Willimantic Linen Company, which claims to be the special champion of American Industry, and which has extensively advertised a Grand Prize at Paris.

NO GRAND PRIZES were awarded for Spool Cotton at PARIS.

Messrs. J. & P. Coats have established in Pawtucket, R. I., the largest spool Cotton Mills in the United States. Every process of manufacture from the raw cotton to the finished spool is conducted there. Their American-made Spool Cotton took the award at the Centennial, and while they have never claimed special merit for their American-made Spool Cotton over that manufactured in their Scotch mills, they have the satisfaction of announcing that they have so identified themselves with this country, that NEVER RETURN.

It is said that one out of every four real invalids who go to Denver, Col., to recover health, never return to the East or South except as a corpse. The undertakers, next to the hotel keepers, have the most profitable business. This excessive mortality may be prevented and patients saved and cured under the care of friends and loved ones at home, if they will but use Hop Bitters in time. This we know. See other column.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.
A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

There is no comparison between it and the common slow acting porous plaster. It is in every way superior to all other external remedies including liniments and the so-called electrical appliances. It contains new medicinal elements which in combination with rubber, possess the most extraordinary pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. Any Physician in your own locality will confirm the above statement. For Lame Back, Rheumatism, Female weakness, Stubborn and Neglected Colds and Coughs, diseased Kidneys, Whooping cough, affections of the heart and all ills for which porous plasters are used, it is simply the best known remedy. Ask for Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cts. Sent on receipt of price by Seabury & Johnson, 21 Platt Street, New York.

Poetical.

AN AUTUMN PICTURE.

BY DORA READ GOODALE.

Sky deep, intense, and wondrous blue,
With clouds that sail the heavens through;
And mountain slopes so broad and fair
With here and there, amongst the green,
A maple or an ash-tree seen
In glowing color, bright and rare.

Green fields, where silvery ripples fade,
With cattle resting in the shade;
Far mountains, touched with purple haze
That, like a veil of morning mist,
By gleams of golden sunlight kissed,
Seems but a breath of by gone days.

And clover which has bloomed anew
Since shining scythes did cut it through,
And corn-fields with their harvest fair,
And golden-rod upon the hill,
And purple asters blooming still,
And sunlight melted into air.

—Scribner for November.

An African Belle.

Lieut. Cameron found one tribe in Africa where women were much more respected than is common in that country. This deference of the male sex had, however, the usual effect. The "respected" women became much more addicted to fashion than their less favored sisters. One of the belles of this tribe is thus described by the traveller: She is a merry sort of person, this "Mrs. Pakwanywa," and really ladylike in her manners. It was great fun showing her a looking glass. She had never seen one before, and was half afraid of it, and ashamed to show she was afraid. She is a very dressy body—double rows of cowries round her head, besides copper, iron and ivory stuck in her hair, and just above and in front of each ear a tassel of red and white beads. A large necklace of shells was round her neck, and round her waist a string of opal colored singo-mazzi, and a rope made of strings of a red colored bead. Her front apron was of a leopard skin, and the rear one of colored grass cloth, with its fringe strung with bead, and cowries sewed on it in a pattern; bright iron rings were round her ankles, and copper and ivory bracelets on her arms. Her hair was shaved a little back from her forehead, and three lines each about a quarter of an inch wide, were painted below. The one nearest to the hair was red, the next black, and the next white; and to crown all, she was freshly-anointed with oil, and looked sleek and shiny. Her upper lip was perforated and a piece of stone inserted, until the lip protruded a couple of inches, giving a hideous expression to the face, and making her articulation quite indistinct.

"Squaring It."

A good story has been told of a lisping officer having been victimized by a brother officer—who was noted for his cool deliberation and strong nerves—and of his "getting square" with him in the following manner. The cool joker—Captain Blakeny—was always quizzing the lisping officer—a lieutenant—for his nervousness, and said one day at mess, "Why, nervousness is all nonsense; I tell you, no brave man is ever nervous." "Well," inquired his lisping friend, "how would you act thpothing a thell with an lath futhee thould drop itshelf in a walled angle, in which you had taken thelter from a company of tharpshooterth, and where it wath thertain if you put out your nothe you'd get peppered?" "How?" said the captain, with a look at the other officers. "Take it cooly, and spit on the fuse." The party broke up and all retired.

The next morning a number of soldiers were assembled on parade, when along came the lisping lieutenant. Lazily opening his eyes, he remarked to a cluster of officers, "I want to try an ektheriment thith morning, and thee how ektheedingly cool Tom Blakeney can be." Saying this, he walked deliberately into the captain's quarters, where a fire was burning on the hearth, and placed in its hottest part a powder canister and instantly retreated. There was but one door of egress from the quarters, and that opened upon the parade ground; the occupant gave one look at the canister, comprehended the situation, and in a moment made for the door, but it was fastened on the outside. "Charley, let me out, if you love me!" shouted the Captain. 'Thpit on the canither!' shouted he in return. Not a moment was to be lost; the captain had at first snatched up a blanket to cover himself with; but soon dropping it, he raised the window, and out he bounded, sans everything but a very short under garment, and thus with hair almost on end, he dashed on to a full parade ground. The shouts which hailed him brought out the whole of the occupants of the barracks to see what was the matter, and the dignified captain pulled a sargeant in front of him to hide himself. 'Why didn't you thpit on it?' inquired the lieutenant. "Because there was no sharp-shooters in front to stop a retreat,' replied the captain. 'All I've got to thay, then, ith that you might thafly have done it; for I'll thwear there wathn't a thingle grain of powder in it."—English Paper.

They Brought Cutlet.

This humorous hit is from a Paris paper: A Brazilian count, a billionare was dining at the table de'hote of a fashionable hotel. His cutlet was to his taste, and he ordered another.

"We only give one cutlet," said the manager, "and no bread with one fish ball."

Without a word the count rose, went to, bought the hotel, returned, led the manager to the front door and kicked him down the steps, then reseating himself at the table, said:

"Bring me another cutlet."

They brought it, swift as the eagle cleaves the air.

CHEESE STRAWS—. Take a quarter of a pound of flour, two ounces butter broken in the flour and rubbed until quite smooth, two ounces good cheese grated, the yolks of two eggs and the white of one; season with a little salt; mix all together; roll out to the thickness or rather less than a quarter of an inch; place on a well-buttered tin and cut into very narrow strips four or five inches long; bake in a moderate oven for five minutes; pile in a glass dish, laying two one way and two over them, as timbers are piled to dry, and the effect is very pretty.

CLOVER.—Clover is called, and properly so, the sheet-anchor of American husbandry. It is capable of doing more to bring impoverished lands to a high state of cultivation with less expense than any other agency. And just in proportion as the farmer cultivates this plan will he be releived from the necessity of purchasing commercial fertilizers to enrich the land. There is no system of cultivation to enable the farmer to keep the fertility of his land without resorting to such agencies, yet the use of clover will do for you what the miracles did for Moses. It will do no more; it will cancel notes, pay mortgages, extinguish obligations, and bring abundance where there is want.

—The present cheapness of fodder is said to make a difference of $2,500 per week in feeding the 6,000 horses of the London General Omnibus Company.

GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

Cures all Pain in Man and Beast

TESTIMONIALS:

PROLAPSUS UTERI (Falling of the Womb.) A Wonderful Cure.—Nine years my wife suffered with this terrible complaint. She was attended by doctor after doctor, went to the different hospitals where females are treated; tried them all; wore bandages and pessaries with only temporary relief. Her life was miserable. We applied Dr. Giles' Liniment. Her relief was immediate. She is now well.

B. McDERMOTT,
40 West 13th street, New York.

I had twelve strokes of Paralysis. My leg, arm and tongue were useless; was obliged to use a catheter every day. Doctor Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia has cured me. Will answer any inquiries so that all afflicted may know of it.

JOHN APPEL, North Branford, Conn.

Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, April 22, '76.

W. M. Giles, Esq., Dear Sir—I used your Iodide of Ammonia Liniment on Flora Temple's hind pastern joint. She had been quite lame; the effect was wonderful; she was now quite well. Very respectfully yours,

A. WELCH.

P. S.—I am now using it on Littleton's right fore leg.

A large shoe boil on a valuable young horse was removed by Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia.

SHEPHERD KNAPP,
Carpets, 175 sixth ave., New York.

ASTHMA—The tortures and agonies I endured for six years, none but those who have suffered with this terrible disease can know. My life was miserable. In desperation I tried Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia. It gave me instant relief. Used it internally as well as externally.

THOS. BRANIGAN,
127 west 25th street, New York.

I was in a dreadful condition. Joints swollen, pain intense. Injections of morphine into my veins failed to relieve me. Giles' Iodide of Ammonia took away the deposits from my joints. I want every one who suffers to know what will cure them.

FORDYCE LOTHROP,
North Hyde Park, Lamoille co. Vt.

Another Sufferer cured.—Discharged from the Massachusetts General Hospital as incurable, with inflammatory rheumatism in my shoulders, fingers and feet; suffered fearfully for three years, tried everything; lost all hope. Dr. Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia effected a complete cure.

ELLEN SMITH,
No. 72 Prane street, Fall River, Mass

Sprains, splints, bruises, Lameness in horses, Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia is a perfect specific. No person who owns a horse should be without it.

M. RODENS,
569 seventh avenue, New York.

In my family, and for the stock, I have used Giles' Liniment Iodide of Ammonia. It is unsurpassed, and I am surprised at the many different maladies in which it is applicable. It gives the utmost satisfaction.

VIGORENE

for all DISEASES [illegible] of the BLADDER, LIVER, KIDNEYS, or DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

DR. J. WALKER'S SIERRA NEVADA
VIGORENE

The Best Family Medicine on Earth.

$100 IN GOLD

to any person afflicted with a disease that VIGORENE will not relieve or cure, providing the bones or organs are not wasted beyond point of repair.

VIGORENE

is scientifically compounded from Herbs, Roots, Barks and Gums found in California and the West Indies, combining a Tonic, Cathartic, Alterative, Diuretic and Sudorific.

Its immediate effect upon the digestive organs, whether impaired by disease or exhausted from any cause, is to increase their powers of assimilation and nutrition. It increases the appetite, assists digestion, and gives firmness and tone to the muscular and nervous system. It stimulates the vital processes to renewed activity, alters, corrects and purifies the fluids, tones the organs and re-establishes their healthy functions.

THE ONLY TRUE REMEDY FOR COLDS.

It is useless to expatiate upon the virtues of this GREAT REMEDY. If you are suffering from BILIOUS ATTACKS, DYSPEPSIA, or INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, GENERAL DEBILITY, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY or NERVOUS DISEASES, or any disorder arising from IMPURE BLOOD, get a bottle of VIGORENE and take it as per directions on each bottle in English, German, Spanish and French. One bottle will better convince you of its merits than volumes expressed in printers' ink.

A trial of one bottle insures its adoption in every family for no Man, Woman or Child can take it without [illegible]. It first cleanses the system, then repairs, then builds up, thus curing disease and establishing health on a permanent, safe and enduring basis.

Put up in large bottles, and is pleasant to take.

Sold by Druggists Generally. Price, $1.00 per Bottle.

Walker & Badger Mfg. Co., Prop'rs,
40 John Street, New York.

VIGORENE

SUFFERED 30 YEARS.

Jersey City, September 21, 1878.

No tongue can tell what I have suffered for the past 30 years from COSTIVENESS and BLIND BLEEDING PILES, at times so bad that I could not stand upon my feet. I could not walk half a mile without suffering intense agony which would bring on severe illness.

About one year ago I was induced to try a bottle of your VIGORENE and am glad to state that after taking four bottles I was entirely cured of both diseases and am now enjoying excellent health and strength. I advise all similarly afflicted to try VIGORENE.

MRS. G. P. FERRIS, 134 Sussex St.

DON'T GO FOOLING AROUND.

As a regulating medicine I can confidently recommend VIGORENE. I have used it in my family and know others who have tried it, and all pronounce it good and reliable. It don't go fooling around and disappoint you by making no sign, but it attends to business and accomplishes that whereunto it is sent.

WM. R. DUVALL, Riverhead, L. I.

OF YEARS STANDING.

I used one bottle of VIGORENE and can truthfully say that it has cured me of DYSPEPSIA and BILIOUSNESS of years standing.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

By its great and thorough blood-purifying properties, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt-rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine.

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, White Swellings, Goitre or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures.

In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Prop'r, World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.
THE "LITTLE GIANT" CATHARTIC.

No use of taking the large, repulsive, nauseous pills, composed of cheap, crude, and bulky ingredients. These Pellets are scarcely larger than mustard seeds. Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using them. They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For Jaundice, Headache, Constipation, Impure Blood, Pain in the Shoulders, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations from the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious attacks, Pain in region of Kidneys, Internal Fever, Bloated feeling about Stomach, Rush of Blood to Head, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Purgative Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may be said that their action upon the animal economy is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative impress. Age does not impair the properties of these Pellets. They are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. This is not the case with pills put up in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. For all diseases where a Laxative, Alterative, or Purgative, is indicated, these little Pellets will give the most perfect satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

CATARRH

SYMPTOMS.—Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucus, purulent, offensive, etc. In others, a dryness, dry, watery, weak, or inflamed eyes, stopping up, or obstruction, of the nasal passages, ringing in ears, deafness, hawking and coughing to clear the throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice altered, nasal twang, offensive breath, impaired or total deprivation of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, tickling cough, etc. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

produces radical cures of the worst cases of Catarrh, no matter of how long standing. The liquid remedy may be snuffed, or better applied by the use of Dr. Pierce's Douche. This is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried HIGH UP and PERFECTLY APPLIED to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. Its use is pleasant and easily understood, from directions accompanying each instrument. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications. It is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. Catarrh Remedy and Douche sold by druggists. R. V. PIERCE, M.
